

TEMPEST GRAV-TANK

POINTS: 425

"Tempest" is the Imperial designation given to a super heavy grav-tank from the ancient days of the Eldar Empire and a precursor to the more common Scorpion. Although its pulsar is less powerful than the one mounted on the modern Scorpion, it has a wide array of anti-personnel weaponry that enables it to operate in less well-supported positions; a feature preferred by some Autarchs when formulating their intricate battle plans.

UNIT: 1 Tempest

TYPE: Super-heavy tank, Skimmer, Fast

STRUCTURE POINTS: 2

WEAPONS AND EQUIPMENT:

- One turret-mounted twin-linked Tempest Pulsar
- Two hull-mounted Shuriken Catapult Storm
- One turret-mounted twin-linked Shuriken Cannon

SPECIAL RULES:

Starshield: The Tempest is protected by a shimmering energy field. This works in exactly the same way as an Eldar Titan Holo-field.

TOWERING DESTROYER KNIGHT

POINTS: 600

The Towering Destroyer is the most common of the Eldar light titans. It is crewed by a single Eldar and is deployed either solo or in packs of four or more like-minded commanders. They are extremely easy to control and the Eldar pilots often become so immersed in the spirit core of the knight that they feel more comfortable in the pilot's seat than out on foot. Ork Warlords have become so wary of the damage that even a single Towering Destroyer can do to their Gargants in close assault that the knights are given maximum target priority for a Waaagh's Fighta-Bommas.

UNIT: 1 Towering Destroyer Knight

TYPE: Super-heavy walker

STRUCTURE POINTS: 2

WEAPONS AND EQUIPMENT:

- One turret-mounted Knight Pulsar
- One turret-mounted Scatter Laser
- Two Knight Close Combat Weapons (Power Fist or Sword). (The destruction/shaking/exchanging of a DCCW lowers the total number of attacks by 2 attacks.)

REVENANT TITAN (Type 1)

POINTS: 850

An older version of the Eldar Revenant Titan was known to mount an anti-personnel Scatter Laser and fewer, heavier missiles. While it also gave the impression of being more solidly built, its battlefield performance was considered to be almost identical.

UNIT: 1 Revenant Titan

SPECIAL RULES:

Agile: In the Shooting phase the Revenant may divert some of the energy from its Primary Weapons towards its legs, so it can choose to either:

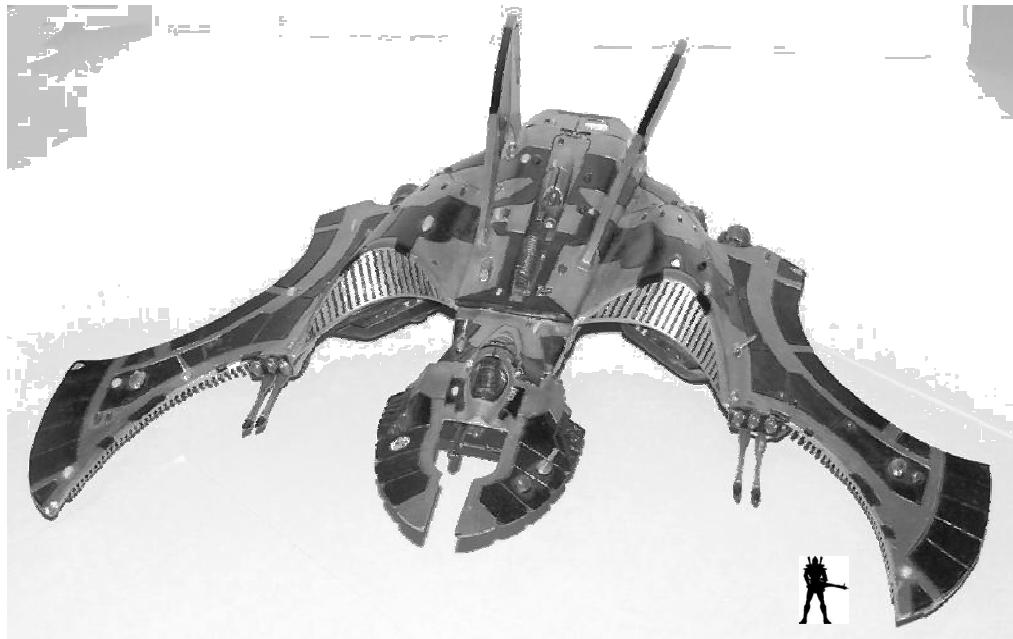

- Fire all available weapons as normal.
- Fire a single Primary Weapon and move an extra D6" (as per the Fleet of Foot rule).
- Fire no weapons at all and move an extra 2D6" (as per the Fleet of Foot rule).

Jump Jets: Instead of moving normally, the Revenant may engage its jump jets. This allows it to travel up to 36" in the movement phase, ignoring all terrain and models as it does so. It may not land on friendly units or difficult/ dangerous/impassable terrain, but it can land on enemy units, resolving this as a Tank-shock. If it uses its jump jets the Revenant may not fire its primary weapons nor use the Agile rule that turn, but it may assault as normal.

VAMPIRE PULSAR RAIDER

POINTS: 830

The Eldar Vampire orbital lander is a testament to their domination of the skies. In the situation where a strike from the Webway is impractical, the Eldar will deploy several Vampire Raiders full of infantry and quickly establish a strongpoint. After the troops have been deployed, the Vampires Raiders will join the Vampire Hunters in carrying out point strikes against enemy heavy vehicles. The Vampire Pulsar Raider mounts a massive Pulsar to the bottom of its fuselage, trading some of its transport capacity for a massive upgrade in firepower.

UNIT: 1 Vampire Pulsar Raider

TYPE: Super-heavy flyer

STRUCTURE POINTS: 3

TRANSPORT: The Vampire Pulsar Raider has a transport capacity of 20.

ACCESS POINTS: One access hatch on the rear.

FIRE POINTS: None.

WEAPONS AND EQUIPMENT:

- Two wing-mounted twin-linked Pulse Lasers
- One nose-mounted Scatter Laser
- One under-slung Pulsar

BONESINGERS

The primary construction material used by the Eldar is a living psychically-active crystal called wraithbone. The Eldar that manipulate the wraithbone do so by establishing a psychic link with it and speak with it, "persuading" it to grow into specific patterns and shapes. The more intricate the shape desired, the more involved the communication must be. Some elder have an affinity for wraithbone communication and can weave long and complicated patterns out of the wraithbone using sophisticated equipment, body gestures, and intricate psychic commands. To nearby eldar, this communication is perceived on both the psychic and physical levels as a beautiful, peaceful song. The Bonesingers, those that spend their lives communicating and constructing with wraithbone, are sometimes brought from deep within the craftworld's core to sing their songs on the battlefield, making quick repairs or reinforcing nearby constructs' armour. It is only with great trepidation that an Autarch would call upon a Bonesinger to act in such a way, since they are more dearly needed once the battle is over.

They thirst for our wraithbone, children! Let us give it to them!

SQUAD: A replacement for any Warlock in an Eldar Army, maximum one per 1000 points.

EQUIPMENT: Shuriken Pistol, Witchblade, and Haywire Grenades. A Bonesinger has a 4+ Invulnerable Save from Runic Armour.

OPTIONS: For +20 points a Bonesinger may ride an Eldar Jetbike, but only if every other model in the unit is riding an Eldar Jetbike. The Jetbike is equipped with twin-linked Shuriken Catapults. The Bonesinger may exchange the Witchblade for a Singing Spear for +3 points or a Power Weapon for free. Bonesingers do not take Warlock Powers.

SPECIAL RULES:

Bonesinger: A Bonesinger is able to form a direct psychic connection with the living construction material wraithbone. By performing intricate rituals and beautiful telepathic songs, he or she is able to coerce the wraithbone into growing and forming into new shapes and, as such, is able to repair minor battlefield damage on the vehicles and units within the Eldar force. If a Bonesinger ends his movement phase within 6" of a friendly Eldar vehicle or unit, he may spend his entire shooting phase attempting a single repair song (called a Bonesong) on the unit. Only one repair attempt may be made per vehicle/construct per turn. The Bonesinger must make a Psychic Test, and is able to re-roll a failed result if attached to the unit or in base contact with the model being sung to.

If successful, pick one of the following Bonesong options, based upon the target model/unit. (Only one Bonesong may be applied to a model in any single phase):

- Modify Saves: Make a normal save invulnerable OR improve a normal save to 2+. Eligible units: Wraithlord, Wraithguard, Jetbikes, Warlocks/Farseers/Bonesingers (rune armour improved to 3+). The effects last until the start of the Eldar player's next movement phase.
- Repair vehicle: Repair a destroyed weapon OR re-mobilize an Immobile vehicle (Super Heavy Vehicle may repair up to half of their lost movement).
- Rending Shurikens: The psychic emissions of the Bonesinger can harden nearby reserves of Shuriken ammunition to phenomenal levels. Add the "Rending" special rule to all Shuriken weaponry (Pistols, Catapults, and Cannons) for the remainder of the shooting phase.

Psyker: Bonesingers are considered Psykers, and the repair song is treated as a psychic power in all circumstances.
